WELCOME

To be successful tomorrow, we must be bold today. In practical terms, this means, as business leaders, we must place a renewed focus on solving our biggest challenges, those that inhibit success, stall growth and lose our customers.

David is an agitator for change with 20+ years of experience breaking new ground in digital change and contemporary leadership. He inspires businesses to achieve their full potential by optimising the interplay between people, process and technology.

David's experiences and holistic business frameworks have been published in several books. His keynotes and workshops use simple, unique, trademarked imagery - making them extremely practical and memorable.

WHY DAVID?

David speaks your language because he's done your job (CIO, Chief Digital Officer).

David will connect the dots between theory and practice, using his renowned frameworks that empower attendees well beyond the session.

David will share tangible, practical, and applicable ideas that inspire and motivate the leaders in your business.

David will supercharge your team with an experience well worth the time away from the day-to-day.

BEING PRACTICAL ABOUT THE FUTURE

Now more than ever, we live in a highly interconnected and interdependent world, which means an action in one place has a real influence elsewhere.

David offers insights into trends and ideas across the themes: country, workplace, community, and family. His reflections are based on his extensive professional experience (CIO, Adjunct Professor, and Author); when this is complemented with research, it encourages people to stop and think, ultimately making everyone more effective.

KEY TOPICS

Digital innovation

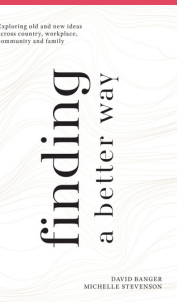

Insights and strategies for your digital business with simple frameworks from David's inaugural book "Digital is Everyone's Business", which includes fourteen CXO testimonials.

Contemporary leadership

Lessons from the past offer insights into today and inspire a meaningful future. David shares stories and a selection of the 200 pieces of research included in his second book "Finding a Better Way".

Cyber security

Reflecting on his former CIO role and 100 hours completed in Harvard's leading program, "Managing Risk in the Information Age", David delivers an engaging non-technical keynote with practical frameworks that will actively uplift cyber security.

RECENT ENGAGEMENTS

Executive customer community

David created and facilitated a half-day with 100 international executives for a global software company (93.8% rating). Content included digital business and emerging leadership practices, followed by a facilitated Q&A with customers.

Virtual global community

David facilitated a series of virtual meetings with company executives and customers. Insights were then captured in ghostwritten blogs for his client's executive. A unique service not offered by many!

Contemporary leadership

David has delivered keynotes at international events exploring emerging leadership practices by integrating psychological safety, servant leadership, and Martin Seligman's PERMA (positive psychology).

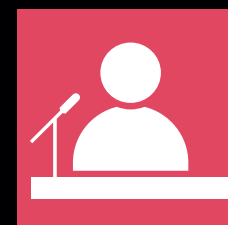

Private board & executive

David was engaged by a privately owned business to review and uplift the cyber security strategy. He presented emerging cyber security practices to the board.

2025 digital & IT strategy

David spent a week onsite with a client to mentor the CIO and facilitate a critical workshop with the CFO and IT leadership team. Deliverables included a review and refreshed strategy.

Bespoke keynote & panel

David was invited to deliver a bespoke keynote consisting of digital, IT and cyber content. Following this, he moderated a panel of CXOs, introducing topics and facilitating Q&A with event attendees.
